

THE SCOTSMAN

Sunday 6th August

DAILY STATION NEWS LETTER

Lochearnhead 2017

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY You can't have a good day with a bad attitude & you can't have a bad day with a good attitude.

Hello

Goodbye

The Weather

To help us find out what is happening weather-wise we have "The Weather Rock" which, unlike BBC weather, is 99% accurate. Using it is simple. Just follow these simple rules. If it's wet then it's raining. If it's dry then it ISN'T raining. If you can't see the rock then it is foggy - if you can then it's clear. If the rock is bouncing up and down then there's an earthquake. If it's swinging then it's windy. If the rock is white then it has been snowing. If the rock has disappeared then there must've been a hurricane.

O.K. Who left this mug on Janets desk?

You'd think we have a 'handle' on this trip by now!

BEWARE OF THE LUGGAGE-LOVING LOCHODILES!

Poor Hayley got home yesterday to discover her bag had been attacked with Gaffa-tape by a crafty Lochodile before it was put on the trailer. So best keep your bunks tidy...

Saturdays Activities

Day one for most started with a familiarisation of the station and personel by some very cleverly disguised games including Fact Finder where the leaders had to be matched with some very strange fact about them, and Find The Letters - a code breaker game involving finding the locations of letters dotted about the station which helps find the missing word.

10p fire

Tin-can Popcorn Cooking

Foot Painting

Winner

and in the evening Patrol C won both the sweet quiz and the numbers quiz.

But you can't keep a mountain biker out of the saddle for too long...

AND FINALLY we wish Patrols A & B safe travels as they depart for their 3 day hike, and welcome their return on Tuesday. Special mention to Emma who celebrates her birthday today.