THIS YEAR AT NORTON BURY some things that will be done ...

This year's Norton Bury Management Committee's Hen. Secretary Lesley Lowe has given Co-ordinator the following information regarding Norton Bury:-

"The Corporation has renewed the lease for the top field with effect from 1st. April 1984.

The AGM has been arranged for Monday 2nd. July, when the Raffle will also be drawn. This year the first prize is £150.00 voucher for any John Lewis store (eg Welwyn Department Store, Robert Sayles, etc.). Other prizes include a Coffee Percolator, a Radio, a Calculator and Beauty Treatment.

When the Grand Raffle Tickets are distributed a new 'information sheet' about Norton Bury will also be given out. Please make sure you buy some tickets and do your best to encourage your boys to sell them.

We have now embarked on the refurbishment of the ablution Block, which we hope to be completed by Easter, and the profits from the raffle are already allocated!

Inside the house we plan to turn the 'dust hole' in the Activity Room into an Activity Cupboard, and any games, books, jigsaws, etc. will be greatly appreciated.

Finally, a plea to all Leaders: Please make sure that your boys arrive at Norton Bury IN SMART UNIFORM.

Thank you, and good luck for the raffle!" (Lesley Lowe).

URCENT WARNING: Don't use your Canoes unless they have been registered! To date VERY FEW canoes have been registered for this year.

To use a non-registered canoe CANCELS the Scout Assn. Member's Insurance Policy.

It is the Leader's responsibility to ensure that any canoes used by his boys are registered, even if they do not belong to his Group!

The 1984/85 Registration Plate is coloured Orange and if it is not stuck on the canoe the canoe must not be used on Scouting Activities. (Dave Liddle)

SUBS/MEMBERSHIP FEES by DEED of COVENANT' --

Cubs and Scouts' Parents who pay Income tax at the standard rate on part of their income should have their attention drawn to the advantage (to us) of paying their sons' subs and membership fees by 'deed of covenant', for a period capable of exceeding three years. Four years as the minimum is the period usually chosen.

Under this scheme, the Parent enters into an agreement to pay his sons' subs/membership fees to the Group. The agreement is signed under seal; this condition is conveniently satisfied by the attachment of an adhesive wafer, obtainable from any law stationer.

Having done this, the Parent's payment is treated, for income tax purposes, as being the Group's income and not that of the Parent. The Parent will, however, have already paid tax on his income from which he paid his son's subs, so the Group - being a charity - may claim a refund of that tax already paid.

For example, if a Parent agrees to pay £13.00 a year for four years, the argument to the income tax authorities is:-

Mr A. has entered into a binding agreement to pay us a subscription for four years, and the money this represents is accordingly not considered part of his income for that period."...(Income and Corporation Act 1970, S.434)..."But you have already had tax on a gross amount of £20.00 which was not then his income.

So we, as a charity exempt from income tax, call on you to hand over to us the £7.00 tax which you took from the money whilst it was in Mr A's hands."

And if the agreement with Mr A. (which is called a "covenant") is in order, the income tax authorities will do so; and the Group thus gets £20.00 - (that is £13.00 paid by Mr A. and the £7.00 obtained from the income tax authorities), whilst Mr A. still pays only what he has previously promised, namely £13.00 out of his taxed income.

The form for re-claiming the tax each year can be obtained from the Bootle office. The first year that tax is reclaimed, the Covenant must be sent in with the form; and each year there must also be included a certificate: eg (form R185 (A.P.)), obtainable from the Chief Inspector of Taxes (Claims), and signed by the parent, is sent on the first and last year, and in intervenirg years form R248A is completed, on which ell deeds of covenant are listed where the annual payment on each is less than £30.00 (or other stated figure)

Further details, together with a specimen 'Covenant Form' can be obtained from 'The Scout Association - Legal Department' by asking for their handout titled 'Subscription by Deed of Covenant'.
